Would Hike Gas Tax to Benefit Cities, Counties

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A promised bill to increase the state gasoline tax by one cent per gallon for the benefit of city and county street and road work reached the Arkansas Legislature today.

The measure was introduced in the House by Rep. John Bethell of Prairie County.

Half of the increased gasoline tax money would go to Arkansas cities and the other half to counties.

Several weeks ago municipal leaders said such a bill would be introduced to ease what they called the cities' hard-pressed money position.

The bill was one of several introduced today in the House during a session lasting less than an hour.

None of the measures was related directly to the taxation program which Gov. Orval Faubus outlined before a joint House-Senate session yesterday.

Rep. Paul Graham of Lawrence County introduced a bill which would change the procedure for allowing gasoline used in farm implements to enjoy a 2-cent per gallon rate, rather than the general 6-cent per gallon tax.

Graham would exempt farm machinery from all present gasoline taxes and impose a special 2-cent per gallon tax.

Currently, gasoline used on the farm is taxed at the regular rate and farmers have to apply for refunds.

Reps. J. E. Garner and Mel Phillips of Sebastian County brought in a bill which would restore exemption of federal income tax payments from state income tax declarations.

That was the rule until 1949.

School Band Plans Series of Concerts

On January 24, in the High School auditorium, the first of a series of two winter concerts will be presented by the Hope Junior and Senior High School Bands. G. T. Cannon, Director will lead the 68 piece Junior High Band through the first half of the program and then Delmer Weliver, student director, will assist Mr. Cannon in directing the 78 piece Senior band after intermission. Curtain time for the concert is 7:30 p. m.

An interesting program has been planned, including specialties as well as full band selections of both classical and modern music. As an indication of their desire to make the best showing possible, both bands are voluntarily continuing rehearsals during the mid-term examination days. The bands have accomplished the difficult change-over from football season to the concert season admirably as patrons of this concert will discover. For a majority of the Junior High band this will be their first public concert since about forty of them started last summer.

Members of the two groups are now selling tickets, which are priced the same as last year, fifty cents for adults and twenty five for students. Children under school age will be admitted free. The proceeds from this concert will be used to help pay for band letter awards.

Nasser Seizes All Foreign Firms in Egypt

By WILTON WYNN

government has ordered all foreign banks, insurance companies and trading firms in Egypt converted to Egyptian management and ownership.

British and French concerns were "Egyptianized" as of today, being classed as enemy property. Other foreign firms were given five years to convert themselves to Egyptian joint stock companies.

The series of "Egyptianization" decrees stopped just short of the government's taking over ownership. But it insured government control of foreign-owned concerns through a new octopus-like "economic life."

The net effect probably will be to kill the possibility of any considerable U. S. or Western investment in Egypt so long as the present regime remains in power. The new laws also threatened prospects of cooperation between the United States and the Nasser regime.

A large share of the foreign enterprises in Cairo were run by British and French citizens. These firms were sequestered by the Egyptian after the Oct. 31 British-French attack. Estimates of the total value of the British-French businesses range from 210 million to 900 million dollars.

After Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal last June, Britain froze more than 280 million dollars in Egyptian assets in London.

The decrees declare that all agents for foreign firms in Egypt must be Egyptian-born citizens or Egyptian joint stock companies.

All shares of the banks and insurance companies must be owned entirely by Egyptians. All board members and those responsible for bank administration must be native-born Egyptians.

There is one American bank in Egypt, a branch of the First National City Bank of New York.

School Needs Told by PTA Officials

Needs of the Hope public schools were outlined in talks to the Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday by Mrs. Frank King and Mrs. Jack Lowe, presidents of the Oglesby and Junior-Senior High School Parent-Teacher Associations.

Mrs. King dealt with the grade schools, and pointed out the most pressing needs as follows:

Relief of the four grade school principals, who she said were performing double duties, that as principal duties as well as carrying a teachers load.

The need of a speech therapist. A survey shows, she said, that 94 grade students have speech defects.

The need for adequate facilities and personnel for a better musical program in the grade school.

Equipment and supplies are inadequate. She said the grade school PTA's spent from $50 to $200 each year on the purchase of books alone. The Brookwood PTA spent $700 to provide an outside metal shelter for the children.

Mrs. Jack Lowe, president of the Junior-Senior High School PTA, spoke on the needs of those schools, and pointed to the need for better facilities, more personnel, equipment and supplies and an improved curriculum for students.

She pointed to inadequate facilities in the manual training department, the home economics department, and the laboratory for science students. Additional space is already needed at the Junior High School where classrooms are crowded, although the building is only about six years old.

Guests of the club were F. A. Brewer, office staff member of Hope Basket Company, and Dr. Harold Brents.

Glove Plant Slated for Mount Ida

MOUNT IDA, Ark. — A glove factory eventually employing about 250 persons will be located at this west Arkansas town, Glen Hickey, president of the Montgomery County Industrial Development Corp., announced yesterday.

He said a $210,000 building would be constructed for Indianapolis Glove Co., which announced last week it planned to build a flannel glove factory at Waldron, also in West Arkansas.

Work on the building here is expected to begin next month.

Arkansas River Projects Are in Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower apparently has abandoned his opposition to projects involved in the overall development program for the Arkansas River.

In his budget message to Congress today he recommended appropriations for two of the river projects which he specifically opposed a year ago.

A year ago he asked that no money be voted for the Dardanelle Dam on the river in Arkansas and for the Eufaula Reservoir in Oklahoma. He said benefits from the two could not be fully realized until completion of a billion dollar program to develop navigation on the stream and that he did not want to be committed to such a program.

However, Congress went ahead and voted funds last year to start actual construction of both projects.

The President's budget submitted today, for the year starting July 1, recommends appropriations of $12 million dollars for Eufaula, and $300,000 for Dardanelle.

In all, the budget contains recommendations for more than 25 million dollars for Arkansas projects, topped by 17 million dollars for Table Rock Reservoir on White River.

Among the new projects on which the President recommended a beginning the coming year is installation of Power Units 5 and 6 in Bull Shoals Dam. He recommended $110,000 to initiate this work.

Some Arkansas projects are included in the overall lower Mississippi River program, for which the President asked 59 million.

In the Mississippi program the President included $50,000 planning funds for the Bayou Meto project — a flood control and drainage project for south central Arkansas authorized in 1919 at a cost of 6 million dollars. He noted that funds for this and one other project — the Yazoo River backwater project in Mississippi — would complete planning for them and that construction is scheduled for initiation "after 1958."

He also recommended $1,700,000 to start construction on Greers Ferry Reservoir near Heber Springs, Ark.

He proposed $250,000 planning funds for Beaver Reservoir, $150,000 planning funds for Quachita River and Black River and $50,000 planning funds for bank stabilization work on Arkansas River.

Bennett Keeps Old Atty. General's Help

Finch was assistant to outgoing Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry. Bennett also retained two other assistants from Gentry's staff — Thorp Thomas and Ben J. Harrison.

Paul Whiteman, King of Jazz, Keeps Rolling

NEW YORK (AP) — All the kings of what Westbrook Pegler so aptly called "the era of wonderful nonsense" are dead, identified, or retired — except one.

At the edge of 67, Paul Whiteman the original "King of Jazz," looks 20 years younger, still boils over with the tempestuous energy that made the 1920's one of history's most memorable decades.

Paul who for a time at the old Hippodrome conducted his band atop a white horse ran Arturo Toscanini's orchestra in 1934, has put together a golden anniversary record album to celebrate his 50 years in music.

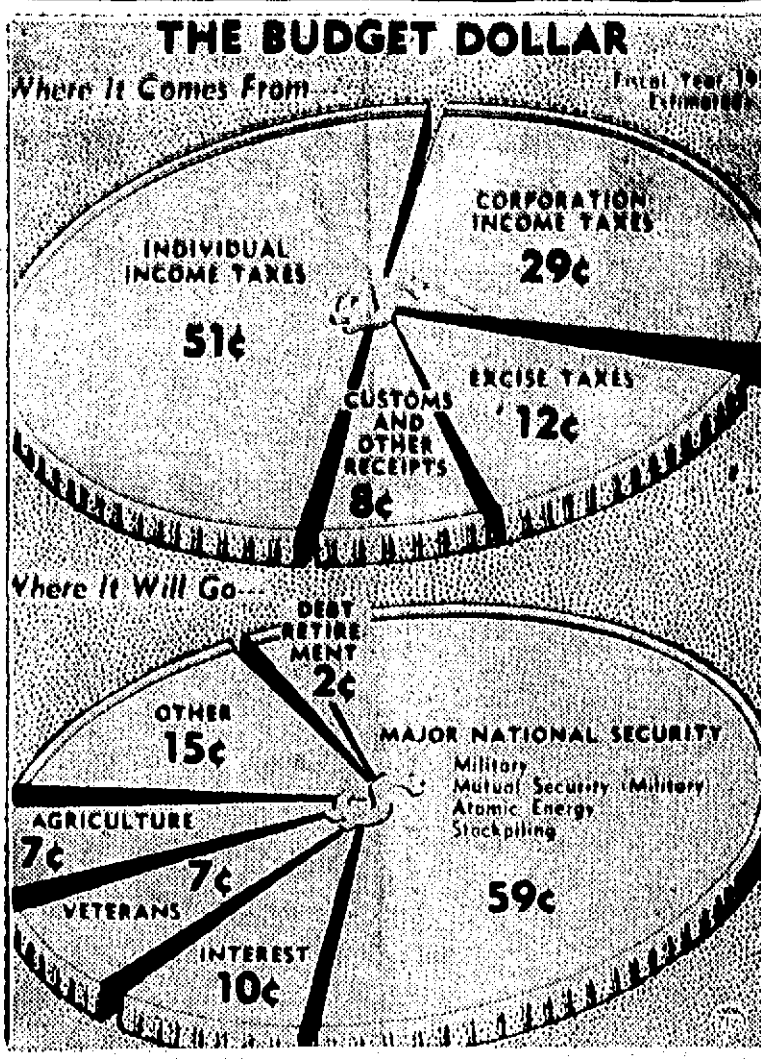

The album has taken many an aging jazz lover back to the springtime of his life when Rix Beiderbecke, who died young, blew a trumpet as no man has since, and a young unknown called Bing Crosby was one of three "Rhythm Boys" and didn't have a rap to his name.

The rest of this piece is a monologue of memories and summaries by "Pops" Whiteman who keeps the 1920's wrapped in his soul but remains as fresh as tomorrow.

"They didn't call it jazz when I started. They called it rag. I began on the viola in the Denver Symphony Orchestra in 1903 when I was 16. By 1919 I had my own orchestra and some first-class players."

I had 8 pieces and I built the orchestra. Continued on Page Four

PROPOSED BUDGET — New chart shows where the basic dollar will come from and how it will be spent in financing President Eisenhower's proposed budget for fiscal 1958. 55 Below Is Record for New York

By the Associated Press

Winter's coldest weather in the eastern half of the nation showed no general break today.

Some places were hit by fresh blasts of frigid air and more snow in the season's longest cold snap in areas from the Rockies to New England.

A new batch of Arctic air surged into the snow-covered north central region and temperatures tumbled below zero from the Rockies to Lake Michigan.

Northern New York and New England were in the subzero zone again after yesterday morning's season low records in most of the Northeast. The 55 below zero at Boonville, in central New York, was an all-time low mark for the state.

Heavy snow warnings were posted for New England, with accumulations of 6 to 12 inches expected by tonight in most of the area.

Largest area of precipitation during the night was in the east, including parts of the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley area and all of the Atlantic coastal states except Florida. Snow fell in northern sections and mostly drizzle in the southern Atlantic states. Fog was reported in areas from Florida northward to Philadelphia.

The fresh cold air into the plains sent the mercury tumbling to 28 below at Bozeman, Mont., and 14 at Bismarck, N. D. Chicago, with a heavy blanket of snow, was hit by the icy blasts, and temperatures dropped below zero.

$76 Million for Drought Area Asked

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says he is asking Congress today for an additional 76 million dollars for emergency drought relief.

Plans to include the request in the administration budget going to the lawmakers during the day were announced by the President at a conference in Wichita, Kan., late yesterday.

Immediately after that meeting with representatives from 15 drought-hit Great Plains states, Eisenhower flew back to the capital, ending a six-state aerial and ground inspection tour which started Sunday.

Although he called for continuation and expansion of emergency aid, he told his audience of about 700:

"I am convinced that the state and local governments should assume greater responsibility in helping solve the recurring problems of agriculture, including distress."

"I think this would aid materially in a more effective administration of these programs and is better adapting them on local conditions and actual requirements."

In addition of proposing a supplemental 76 million dollars in emergency aid for the drought areas, Eisenhower called for a reappraisal of the credit policies of both federal and private lending agencies to determine whether loans can be extended to farmers and ranchers under more liberal terms.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The Rev. Ira A. Brumley of Conway, Ark., and five other persons were elected to a General Commission on Christian Higher Education at a Methodist conference yesterday.

The General Board of Education of the Methodist Church was told that extended religious education is needed to alleviate an annual shortage of about 1,200 clergymen.

Reaction to Faubus' Tax Increase Plea

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The hope of a decade free of tax increases was held out by Gov. Orval Faubus yesterday — shortly after he called for 22 million dollars in new taxes in his inaugural speech.

Faubus said that if his tax program is enacted it may "settle the issue of taxes for years to come."

Industrial progress and the accompanying boost in tax revenue should meet future demands, the governor said.

Faubus' tax request surprised few persons. Intimations as to what the governor would seek had been dropped freely in the weeks before the General Assembly met Monday.

The governor asked for an increase in the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent. He said this would provide 16 million dollars yearly.

He asked for lowered state income tax exemptions, which he said would provide 5 millions.

He asked for an increase in severance taxes — those levied for removing the state's natural resources — which would provide about 1 million dollars.

All the extra money would be used for expanded state services.

The governor, beginning his second term, said after the speech he was pleased with the reaction of legislators. He added that favoring his program naturally would be the first to tell him so.

Immediate public reaction of legislators was on the cautious side.

Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry County, an anti-tax leader, said he was "not thoroughly convinced" of the methods for obtaining needed money. He is chairman of the powerful House Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Rep. C. C. Hollingsworth of Bradley County praised the "wonderful program" but said he would not commit himself yet.

Rep. Jim Slack of Clark County said it is "now up to the people whether they want to go first class or steerage."

Rep. Marion Crank of Little River County said that until application of the present sales tax is "broadened," he could not go along with an increase.

Livestock and poultry feed currently are exempt from the sales tax. Faubus refused to say yesterday whether he would agree to drop the exemption in order to gain passage of the 3 per cent sales tax.

"I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," the governor said.

Rep. Marcus Howell of Phillips County also urged the removal of exemptions before a sales tax boost. Rep. Guy French of Poinsett County said he believed he could support the governor's program.

$71.8 Billion Record Budget Is Proposed to Congress by President

Continue High Taxes Urged to Pay the Way

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today handed Congress his 1957 want-list of legislation, topped by a renewal of high tax rates, higher interest charges on government-sponsored loans, and a natural gas bill like the one he vetoed last year.

The President, in presenting his $71,800,000,000 budget, urged postal rate increases that would boost the cost of a 3-cent stamp to a nickel, and he called for full speed ahead on federal aid for "schools, highways and homes."

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey said the rising budget trend "should promptly be stopped." He told reporters he would be "glad" if Congress could find any unnecessary costs it could eliminate.

He emphasized, however, that he was not criticizing the President's budget, commenting, "It's the best we can possibly do right now." But he added that if all hands go to work, it can be whittled down before the fiscal year ends in mid-1958.

Then Humphrey made some legislative disclosures of his own:

1. The Treasury may ask Congress to boost the interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds, now paying 3 per cent if held 10 years.

2. The Treasury will fight "any and all" tax-cutting proposals which reduce revenues.

3. If prosperity endures and government revenues are high, the administration may ask for "tax relief" to tax relief along with a further reduction of the national debt.

Many of the President's budget requests were repeats of his programs which Congress didn't pass last year.

High among these was his call for a four-year program of federal matching grants to help build classrooms throughout the nation. He asked $51 million dollars to get the program started.

The budget message suggested an increase to 5 per cent in the 4 1/2 per cent limit now fixed on home loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. He said it would be "to make more money available for GI loans, how hard to get in many areas."

Eisenhower called for a new natural gas bill, having the same intent as the one he vetoed last year — to exempt gas producers from the public utility type of price regulation. He called for price guards to insure that "the price to the public will be fair."

On the atom-for-peace front, he advised industry to get busy. Unless private capital shows "reasonable" progress in starting atom-fueled electric plants, he said, he will recommend "direct construction by the federal government."

Icy Bridge Blamed for Accident

WEST HELENA, Ark. (AP) — A patch of ice on a bridge here was blamed for a traffic collision in which one man was killed and four other persons injured yesterday.

State Trooper Dwight Galloway said a car driven by Miss Joy Kay Hubble of West Helena struck the ice patch and then it and a car driven by John Quincy Johnson, 23, Negro, collided.

Johnson was killed and Miss Hubble was injured. Also hospitalized here were three Negroes: Manuel Ausely, 47, his wife, and their daughter, Mrs. Floline Armstrong, 31. All the Negroes were Phillips County residents.

World's Great Toscanini Dies at 89

NEW YORK (AP) — Arturo Toscanini, a poor Italian boy who became one of the world's foremost orchestra conductors, died in his sleep today. He was 89.

Death occurred at his home in Riverside, the Bronx. His son, Walter, said the famous maestro had suffered a stroke on New Year's Day and had not fully recovered from it.

Toscanini's brilliant career spanned 70 years, and won him virtually every honor the musical world has to offer.

He had already scored great success before he came to the United States, in 1908. In this country he swept on to the heights of fame.

Amount Allows for 'Fight If We Must Policy'

By WILLIAM O. VARN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today proposed to Congress a tight-fisted budget for next year calling for a boost of more than two billion dollars in military spending and a record peacetime outlay of 71,800,000,000 in federal funds.

He said his budget for his fiscal year 1958 beginning next July 1, was balanced and provided for a surplus for the third straight year. But once again he came out against any tax cuts, except for possible relief for small business involving "minimum loss of revenue."

In obvious reference to stepped-up spending for defense, he said two of the major guidelines he used in drafting the financial blueprint were designed to assure:

"Pence, justice and freedom for our own and other peoples and 'Powerful armed forces to deter and, if need be, to defeat aggression.'"

"I am convinced," he said, "That the defense programs

The W. M. S. met at the Parsonage January 14, at 8 o'clock, and the meeting called to order by the President, Mrs. E. W. Beatty. The group joined in the singing of the hymn, "Have Thine Own Way," and prayer voiced by Mrs. Peterson.

The scripture reading from Psalm 46 was given by Mrs. Beatty. The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Richardson and approved.

No Relief in Sight From Bitter Cold

By The Associated Press

A mid-January cold spell held fast over most of the eastern half of the nation today and no immediate relief was indicated. Although icy air extended from east of the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast, the main push of arctic blasts during the night was from New England southwestward to Texas.

Temperatures in the area were generally 10 to 20 degrees lower than yesterday morning. But the coldest spots were in northern New England and New York state, with readings expected to range from 30 to 40 degrees below zero.

Temperatures remained below freezing all day yesterday over the vast cold belt and were below zero from northern Michigan to northern New England.

New York City had the coldest weather in nearly two years this morning. The 3 above was the lowest mark since Jan. 3, 1955, and a record low for Jan. 15. The previous low was 6.3 Jan. 15, 1927.

The frigid air in the Eastern area was expected to bring the coldest weather of the season as far south as Georgia and northern sections of the Gulf Coast states.

Some slight warming was reported in the north and central plains eastward into the Mississippi Valley and upper Great Lakes region but it was not very warm. Temperatures ranged from below zero in the extreme north to 20s in Kansas and Missouri. Subzero marks were reported in most of the Midwest yesterday morning.

The immediate outlook in the Midwest was a fresh invasion of cold air and snow.

The Northeast also appeared in line for more snow, with falls forecast from New York to Tennessee, westward to the Mississippi Valley. Snow also was indicated for much of the Mid-Atlantic area and the belt may extend into New England.

Lowly taking part, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Coffield, Mrs. Givens, Mrs. Bread, Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Beatty.

The W. M. S. voted to take enough money out of the treasury to paint the belfry at the church. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Coffield.

Three New Faces Shine in 'Teenage Rebel'

Betty-Lou Keim, a girl from Massachusetts, Warren Berlinger, a boy from Brooklyn, and Diane Jergens, a Hollywood teenager, are billed by Twentieth Century-Fox as "Three Stars of the Future" in "Teenage Rebel," a CinemaScope picture coming to the Saenger theater on Sunday. They share the acting honors with Ginger Rogers and Michael Rennie, the Stars of this Charles Brackett production, which was adapted from the Broadway hit, "A Roomful of Roses," and was directed by Edmund Gulling.

The youngsters, who represent the bright new faces Hollywood is seeking these days, already have established themselves as competent players before joining the picture.

Betty Lou, who plays Berlinger's sister in the picture, was in the roles they played in the state play, both have extensive stage and TV experience. Berlinger makes his screen debut in "Teenage Rebel," but Betty Lou had one picture before coming to Twentieth Century-Fox - "The Wilder Years" at MGM, starring James Cagney, Barbara Stanwyck and Walter Pidgeon.

Diane Jergens, who plays Berlinger's sister in the picture, is only 17 but she has appeared in several films, including "The Gentle Web" and "Friendly Persuasion." She also has had considerable TV work to round out her acting experience.

The story of "Teenage Rebel" revolves around these youngsters, who are members of good families and are not juvenile delinquents. They like rock 'n' roll and engage in "drag" races but are not the destructive type in this story of a mother's efforts to win back the love of her daughter whom she had lost in an early divorce settlement.

Face Ugly Facts About Dating Married Man!

Dear Dorothy Dix: Carlos and I have gone together for eight months. He's married but hasn't lived with his wife for some time. He says he's getting a divorce and wants to marry me. I know I love him, but I'm afraid if he ever lives with one wife, he might not live with another. He has three children and I wonder if, in time I might lose him to them. Everyone is talking about me for going with a married man. Please tell me what to do!

KITTY
Dear Kitty: Look squarely at the situation, and see if it still sounds nice. You're going steady with a married man who has three children, are planning marriage to another woman's husband, and you suffer vague doubts about the future. You're the object of unpleasant, but justified, gossip. These are the unvarnished facts. Don't they look a bit ugly? Stop listening to smooth talk, and pay some attention to your conscience. That is the voice to heed.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My brother, who is stationed in Germany, showed my picture to his buddy, Ray. Ray wrote to me and we began a friendly correspondence. After about two letters, he got quite serious and I stopped writing. Last week I received his "letter of apology" for "feeding me a line," and asking for renewal of our friendship. I'm undecided. Should I write or not?

TV Can't Quite Get the Art of Interviewing

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) With several fine exceptions, television generally fails to present the art of interviewing to the satisfaction of old-time newsmen. Haste often makes a waste of great opportunities; failure to follow through a line of questioning results in diffuse trivia.

Of recent memory is the lady interviewer who was leading a noted musician into an eloquent discussion of his art—when she suddenly asked him about his favorite food; the abrupt switch derailed and paralyzed him. Then there was the reporter, wandering with microphone among dazed survivors of the sunken Andrea Doria. "Hello, how are you?" he said to one. "What was it like?"

One exception, to my mind, is a tough young man of no newspaper reputation, experience named Mike Wallace. Numerous viewers around here sit up until midnight four nights a week watching him quail a number of persons on WABD-TV, a New York independent station, in an hour program called "Night Beat." Before the year is out much of the rest of the country probably will have a chance to view his technique, for he is on the verge of signing a contract with ABC-TV.

Although he has been working his Night Beat for only 13 weeks, Wallace already has become somewhat of a controversial figure. Some people don't like his method. Personally, I do. He goes to the heart of a matter, bluntly, directly — and sometimes rudely. He's a refreshing astringent in the syrupy mass of TV interviews.

He's likely as not to start an interview by asking a person how much she weighs. He's asked the banquet manager of a prominent New York hotel how much truth there is in the report that service has deteriorated badly since the hotel changed hands. A after all, she's having a rough time.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My husband of four months was divorced reluctantly from his ex-wife, who is remarried. He talks about her frequently, extolling her personality and charm. He even carries her picture. Am I justified in being disturbed?

PERPLEXED
Dear Perplexed: Your husband quite evidently is still carrying a torch for wife No. 1. Apparently he's not going to get over it, so you'd better resign yourself to being second choice.

Dear Mrs. C.O.: Why don't you seek guardianship of the children? Talking to the girl is quite useless, as you have seen. Your only other recourse is to law. Perhaps if the welfare agency of your city speaks to your son's wife, she may waken to her responsibilities. Temper your judgment with charity.

Ma Kettle Has a New Pa in Latest Film

By BOB HOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Ma Kettle has a new Pa. He's Parker Fennelly, veteran stage, radio and TV actor who has taken over as Marjorie Main's "Ma and Pa Kettle" at McDougal's Farm.

He replaces crickety Percy Kilbride, who voluntarily retired two Kettles ago. Another of the series was then made with Arthur Hunnicutt in the male lead, but not as Pa.

"I don't know how they happened to choose me," said Fennelly, famed as Timon in "Howdy, Bub!" in the late Fred Allen's "Ally." "I don't resemble Percy at all."

But Fennelly is noted for his portrayal of rural characters, though they have generally been of a New England variety rather than Western like the Kettles. The studio saw him as Arthur Train's Mr. Tull in a Robert Montgomery V show. That spawned the idea that he could be Pa.

"But I told them if they wanted to see something more like Kettle," he remarked, "they should see film I did a year ago for the Robert Young show, 'Father Knows Best.' I played a farmer in that one, the only film I had ever made in Hollywood."

The film confirmed the studio's judgment and Fennelly was signed. Now he's not so sure he should have. He came to lunch at the Pa's usual tiffers, with a rope for a belt "very high-class wardrobe."

New York City lady public official came expecting to say a few nice words about her favorite charity and ended by defending her conduct in public office.

When he asked a noted restaurateur why people called him a slob the staidly gentleman suggested that people were talking about someone else.

Wallace obviously detests sham and pretentiousness in human nature. When he detects it, he hummers at it ruthlessly. This, I submit, is a refreshing characteristic in a medium where too often the tendency is for the interviewer to pat his (or her) subject on the head and say in effect, go ahead now, play your picture or your heaviest investment.

Wallace says that those he interviews are either exhibitionists or people who tell they have something to say or people who feel a challenge in being interviewed. Those kinds of people are not confined to New York.

And he told of spending the morning swimming from a wire for a stunt in which he falls into Ma's arms.

"I didn't read the script before I signed," he commented. "They didn't tell me anything about this."

But though he speaks with Down East caution, he appears to be having a good time. He was a small-town Maine boy who couldn't resist the lure of the footlights. He went to drama school in Boston and started on the stage in 1915.

After serving in the Army after the first World War, he returned to acting and admits that he had plenty of lean times. But with the rise of radio he found steady employment to fill out the times between plays.

Fable and Fancy

The pseudoscientific has always been more attractive than reality. Not too many years ago, the weapons of fable and fancy alone supported man in his conflict against disease. Today, however, a far more powerful ally for longer life is found in the research laboratories of medical science.

band up to 46, counting the singles.
"These were the years! In 1925
I grossed $600,000—before taxes, thank the Lord!
"They talk about the $125,000 party that Texas oil man just threw. Around 1922 our band played for a party for Clarence McKay on Long Island that cost $45,000.
"He only had about 200 invited guests, but he built a model of the Versailles Gardens for the party. There were two acres of cut flowers and an orange grove of 50 live trees shipped up from Fl-rida just for that one night.
"I got a $10,000 tip myself—not unusual in those days. When they threw a party then they weren't fooling.
"I remember a party in Philadelphia where they turned a hotel ballroom into a jungle full of real monkeys, cockatoos—and guests.
At 3 o'clock in the morning, they blew 15 tons of rose petals over the dancers.
"Yes, I threw the first big concert by a jazz band. We introduced George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue." I also had the first jazz band in the Ziegfeld Follies, and took the first American jazz band to Europe. They were high years.
"What killed the big band?
Well, I quit myself. But what destroyed most of them was the bandleaders got fat-headed. Over a period of 10 years they thought the people to listen to singers instead of dancing.
"Guy Lombardo didn't. That's why he's still big. The others made the singers bigger than their bands.
"The greatest entertainer I ever knew? Bing Crosby, as of now.
But Sinatra will be another Crosby.
Sinatra is fabulously generous.
Do you know that guy's given away 26 Cadillacs to people he likes?
"I wouldn't write off this Elvis Presley too fast either. That guy is a symbol to a lot of kids with troubles, but he's got something in his neck, too, and it comes out.
"Talent is God-given, although a lot of performers don't bother to give God equal billing. A thousand guys can practice equally hard—but only one has the spark.
"What destroys many performers is that their head gets so big it gets in their own way. And as their heads get bigger their heart gets smaller.
"That never happened to Bing.
You notice he never has a bad word to say about anybody.
"I don't know. Perry Como is the same way.
"What did Bix Beiderbecke have? Every time he lifted that trumpet, he blew it different from the time before.
"Yes, I lived well. I've hired trains to go on a party. Started for Alaska once on a party but the train never did get there.
"I still do all right. I have me a farm in New Jersey. I call
"Agony Acres on Swinging Jaw Road," complete with mortgage.
"I keep busy in radio and television. I always liked sports cars.
In 1954 I drove 90,000 miles—mostly commuting between home and shows.
"My life has been a mixture of two Jackie Gleason characters—the "poor soul" and the loud mouth. My head has been swollen, and deflated so often that now it stays in a groove. But I've never been mean to anybody.
"In this world you are either under-secure, or under-secure under. If you're lucky, you find the right groove.
"There's nothing left that I particularly want to do. But I can tell you one thing—I don't feel bored!"

wise and reasonable degree of protection for the nation.
The budget message provided $45,300,000 or 63 per cent of expenditures for national security.
These include 33,031,000,000 for U. S. armed forces, $4,363,000,000 for economic and military foreign aid and lesser amounts for atomic energy research and development stockpiling of strategic goods, home civil defense and the U. S.
Information Agency.
Eisenhower forecast that with continuing prosperity the government would collect a record $73-800,000,000 permitting a surplus of $1800 to be applied toward reduction of the massive national debt.
As a result he said, it should not be necessary to ask again this year for an increase in the currently 275-billion-dollar debt limit, now temporarily raised to 275 billions.
If Eisenhower is able to bring off a surplus in the next fiscal year, it will be the third in a row for his administration—the first time that trick has been turned since 1928, 1929 and 1930.
In fiscal 1956, ended last June 30, the government wound up $1,600,000,000 in the black. The President said he foresees a $1-700, surplus this year. That would be about a billion dollars more than was estimated last summer.

Worst Enemy of U. S., Fear and Ignorance

Middle East sets off a World War III. Today Americans are trying to gauge their role in the area. The background and its significance will be sketched in articles by William J.
Ryan, just back from his fourth trip to the Middle East.)

By WILLIAM J. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
The worst enemies of the United States in the Middle East are Ignorance, fear, corruption and poverty.
It will take more than a declaration against armed aggression to defeat these allies of communism.
Economic and cooperation might not be enough.
At best, the Eisenhower Doctrine or some substitute will be a modest beginning toward a continuing policy. It indicates the dawning of an American realization that the last chance in the Middle East is at hand.
As it stands, the Eisenhower Doctrine fails to answer basic questions from either Arab or Israeli. It does not commit the United States to any event would have created a world war situation. On the economic side, given any improvement in political climate, some American program was to be expected.
The most common criticism of the United States in the Middle East is that it never really has had a policy there. In addition, the United States is frequently criticized for seemingly seeking quick solutions to complex problems: Arab and Israeli alike would welcome a clear statement of American policy for the area, but as yet none has been forthcoming.
The core of the problem is an area known as the Fertile Crescent, made up of Iraq, Syria, Jordan and Palestine. In area it is slightly bigger than the state of Texas in population less than the state of New York. This area, the home of about 14 million people, is alive with ferment.
How did it get that way? The story is centuries old, a record of oppression, feudalism, backwardness and the broken promises of the West. Centuries ago this area was the center of Arab grandeur.
From this cradle sprang the three great religions of Western civilization—Christian, Hebrew and Islam.
For many generations the people of the Arab East lived without national identity under the oppressive rule of the Ottoman Empire.
But secret societies plotted movements for independence and a unified Arab state.

UN Is Uneasy Over Israeli Withdrawal

By TOM HOGGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)
Uneasiness mounted in the U. N.
today over Israel's delay in withdrawing its invasion forces completely from Egypt.
Israel announced her troops would quit Egypt's Sinai Peninsula by Jan. 22—except for the key point of Sharm el Sheikh, commanding the approach to the Red Sea Gulf of Aqaba.
The Israeli decision was communicated by U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, framed a resolution condemning Israel's slow withdrawal and calling for effect for economic sanctions against her until the withdrawal behind the 1949 armistice lines.
An Arab League spokesman made clear his government plans to hole, Sharm el Sheikh as a lever to obtain U. N. guarantees against Israel's plan to bar Israeli shipping from the Gulf of Aqaba, the Arab League's southern threat.
Until Israel overran them during her invasion, Egyptian furtifications at Sharm el Sheikh had kept the Gulf closed to Israeli shipping for Israel's entire lifetime as a state.
Israel also announced it was not withdrawing at present from the Gaza Strip, which it considered a part of Palestine.
Egypt had controlled the narrow stretch of land on the Mediterranean before Israel forces seized it in their October-November operation.
Israel has charged repeatedly that the Gaza area was used as a base for Arab commando raids.
There have been some unofficial suggestions that the strip be put under U. N. administration.
A U. S. delegation spokesman said last night the United States holds to its earlier view that Israel should withdraw promptly. U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. has been working to reach some settlement in separate meetings with Israeli Delegate Abba Eban and Egyptian
Foreign Minister Mhamoud
Fawzi.

BACK IN HARNESS—This ancient omnibus, seen in front of the old Stage Coach Inn in Shelburne, Vt., has just been acquired by the Shelburne Museum. It ran for many years in Vergennes, Vt., between the inn, built in 1783, and the railroad station. The inn was recently brought from Vergennes to the Shelburne Museum, where it houses a collection of colonial Americana.

PROMOTED—President Eisenhower has appointed Mansfield D. Sprague, of Bridgeport, Conn., an assistant secretary of defense for manpower, personnel and reserve. Sprague, 46, is now general counsel of the Defense Department.

NEW PLANE FOR BOAC—This is an artist's conception of the new Boeing 707-420 airliner, a plane utilizing the Rolls Royce Conway, a revolutionary "bypass" type jet engine, previously seen only on Russian jet bombers and transports. It is 20 per cent more efficient than conventional jets. The plane is designed to carry from 107 to 170 passengers at speeds of 525 to 575 miles an hour 40,000 feet above the earth. The British government has approved its use by the British Overseas Air Corporation.

"INDUSTRIAL DENTIST"—An industrial "dental" chere is performed by Wesley Weaver, a chipper, in this 101,040-pound iron casting, the largest ever produced at the General Electric foundry in Schenectady, N.Y. Though it took only three and a half minutes to pour the casting, a period of 20 weeks and the work of 15 men was required to prepare the pit and mold, do the casting, clean, cool and ship the monster. Fourteen feet high, 22 feet wide and 10 feet deep, it is an upper exhaust hood for a 173,000-kilowatt steam turbine.

THE PRODIGY AND THE POPE—Literary prodigy Minou Drouot, nine-year-old French poetess, smiles shyly during a special audience with the Pope in Vatican City. Minou's poems have received wide acclaim from literary critics.

"BEHEADED" STALIN—This is Daniel Sego, the Hungarian freedom fighter who cut off the head of the 26-foot-high statue of Joseph Stalin in Budapest during the October 25 uprising. He is pictured at his new job in an English factory. Sego, his wife and seven-month-old daughter, are among nearly 43,000 Hungarian refugees now safe in Britain.

BULL-RING BALLERINA—Pretty Rosemary Hatherly, 19, practices for ballet and bull fights and can't make up her mind which career to follow. Daughter of an English businessman living in Portugal, she recently made her debut as a dancer at the San Carlos Opera House. Above, she executes a graceful "veronica" with the matador's cape as her bull-fighting teacher, Julio Procopio, plays the part of the bull, during a practice session in Lisbon.

NO WOODEN EXPRESSION HERE—Famed French comedian Maurice Chovallier bestows congratulations on his "double" at a Paris theater, after the marionette did an impressive imitation of him in Vitorio Podrecca's puppet show. A tape-recorded voice helped the little fellow do the take-off.

ONE-MAN "CHOPPER"—The Marine Corps' new one-man helicopter, the XROE-1, is shown at Palo Alto, Calif., in use and, on the ground, disassembled. Designed to be collapsed into an easily transportable package, the 'copter weighs less than 250 pounds. It is powered with a Nelson, two-cylinder opposed, two-cycle, air-cooled engine.

TIME ETERNAL—It's always 9 o'clock at St. Mary Magdalene Church in Johnson Creek, Wis. The four-faced clock in the steeple isn't stopped, it just isn't real. Space was provided for a clock when the church was built 50 years ago but it was never bought and these faces are merely painted on.

WHICH TWIN GAVE THE HOMEWORK?—Twin pupils in class have often confused teachers, but Maple Heights, Ohio, has a pair of identical twin teachers who have got their pupils looping. They are Edward Marus, left, math and science teacher and his brother, Robert, who teaches geography and English. Just to complicate matters, they exchange classes. The bewildered pupil between them is Sharon Drummond, 12, a seventh grader. The twins make a quick telephone check every morning to make sure they're not dressed alike.

BIG SHOTS—Big shots in the Marine Corps' small arms department are the "weapons" being handled by these First Division leathernecks at Camp Pendleton, Calif. They are oversized models of the M-1 rifle and the Browning Automatic Rifle, used for demonstration purposes in training.

UNITED FOR PEACE—Soldiers of eight nations, members of the United Nations Emergency Force, are keeping the peace in Egypt today. Here representatives of the various countries pose with the United Nations flag as a backdrop. Soldiers, left to right, are from Norway, Colombia, Yugoslavia, Finland, India, Denmark, Sweden and Canada.

TRAGEDY AT NIAGARA—The news camera catches the prelude to a wintertime tragedy at Niagara Falls, Ontario, as these deer struggle in the icy rapids leading to Horseshoe Falls. They are three of four that were trapped in the swirling currents. They bailed for more than a mile and got ashore, but were frightened back into the water. They were swept to their deaths over the falls.

EVERYTHING'S ALL WHITE—Jayne Mansfield and her Mr. Universe boy friend, Mickey Hargis, stole the show with their twin white outfits at the Hollywood premiere of "Around the World in 80 Days." That's M.C. Eddie Cantor greeting them. Mickey's wearing of a white dinner jacket in the middle of winter shocked fastidious Adolphe Menjou, who murmured: "This could ruin my whole eyeline."
